Campus Housing For Additional 1,000 Students

Dr. John S. Rendleman, president of Southern Illinois University — Southern, advised the SIU Board of Trustees Friday that plans are proceeding for construction of on-campus housing facilities for 1,000 additional single students.

He indicated construction might begin in 1972 with completion a year later.

Rendleman said a housing feasibility study shows that 6,791 married or single students enrolled at SIU-SW in the fall of 1970 lived in non-university housing other than that occupied by their parents. He also reported lack of additional on-campus housing necessitated denying housing to 370 applicants this year.

Tower Lake Apartments, the first on-campus housing facilities, were completed in January, 1970. The project includes 200 two-bedroom and 48 three-bedroom apartments in 31 two-story buildings along the north shore of Tower Lake.

The Tower Lake project was first approved by trustees in August 1965. At that time approval also was given for planning two additional student housing projects, a 1,000-student dormitory and a 300-space cooperative living unit project.

Rendleman said University administrators decided early in 1970 that the dormitory project, as then designed, was inconsistent with contemporary student housing trends which were moving rapidly away from the traditional dormitory type.

Several board members said that the voluntary cutbacks were prudent but may not be enough to satisfy the Board of Higher Education. They said further cutbacks in the operating budget of SIU-SW are likely.

Dental School Again in Peril

The SIU-SW School of Dental Medicine will not be established if the campus is forced to accept a 15% cut below its revised $30 million operating budget.

President John Rendleman told the SIU Board Friday.

He said the budget was cut from $36 million to $30 million to avoid a 19% slash by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. If further cuts are imposed, he will recommend cutting off the dental school, he said.

The board conditionally approved the revised budget and a decrease in the SIU-Carbon-date budget from $68 million to $60 million.

Mrs. Ryckman Dies

Mrs. Pearl Ryckman, 79, of 2820 Madison Ave., a charter member of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club and widow of former Mayor M. E. Kirkpatrick of Granite City, died at 6:40 p.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, where she was a patient 3½ hours.

Mrs. Ryckman had been ill four months and was admitted three weeks ago to a Belleville nursing home.

Last Wednesday evening she was honored at the 50th anniversary dinner of the local Business and Professional Women's Club, a group she had helped to organize a half-century earlier.

She had served as BPW president in 1933-34 and again in 1945 and was among those active in the business women's group who founded the St. Elizabeth Hospital Auxiliary in 1941. She was a charter member of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Ryckman also led the BPW Club's efforts as "Bell-ringers" in the annual solicitation of funds to support Christ-mas projects of the Salvation Army.

Cheaper Gym Is Authorized

Trustees of Southern Illinois University voted in a meeting Friday to discard architectural plans previously drawn for a physical education building for SIU-SW and use the staff of the Office of Architectural and Engineering Services to design a revised, less expensive structure.

The revised building, exclusive of planning and architectural-consultant costs, will be budgeted at $3,975,000, the amount approved by the trustees in their capital budget request for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The trustees adopted a resolution discontinuing Illinois Building Authority Project 1 and authorizes final payment to the architectural firm for services performed for the university beyond the scope of the IBA contract. The university's final payment to Flippo & Associates is not to exceed $100,000.

Plans for construction of a physical education building at the Southern Illinois campus began in December 1964. At that time, trustees engaged Flippo & Associates as architects. The IBA entered into a contract with Flippo for architectural services in 1966. Preliminary plans were approved by the trustees in February, 1968.

The Illinois General Assembly authorized the IBA to participate in the project at a cost, including fees, not to exceed $4,170,000 in 1968. But it soon became apparent that the building, as designed, could not be constructed within that budget.

In 1969, the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare issued a $900,000 federal grant for the project, and a decision was made to construct the building in two phases. However, the university was unable to proceed with the plan because of a freeze on appropriated funds by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, who cited an imbalance in the legislature's revenue and spending plans.

Applications for Holiday Baskets

The Salvation Army's 1971 "Tree of Lights" campaign to provide food baskets, clothing and toys for needy Quad-City families was launched Saturday morning as Mrs. Fanny Epstein, representing Quad-City area citizens, turned on the first light on the Christmas tree in Memorial Park. From left are Brigadier Gladys Booser, Salvation Army field representative; Mrs. Nancy Kerley, Robert Thomas, campaign chairman; Richard West, advisory board chairman; Captain Ron Kerley, commander of the Salvation Army, and Mrs. Epstein. A quota of $10,000 is sought to fund Christmas baskets, dinners and other activities.

Applications for holiday baskets will be accepted starting next Monday, Nov. 29, at the Salvation Army office, 1239 Nineteenth St.

Applicants must apply in person at the office, the official said. Requests will be processed for one week only, concluding Friday, Dec. 3.

About 35 persons attending Saturday's bazaar at the Tri-Cities Area YMCA later walked along Niedringhaus Avenue to the Salvation Army tree site, opposite St. Elizabeth Hospital, where Mrs. Fanny Epstein turned on the first light. A total of 10 lights, representing $267 in advance gifts, illuminated the tree.

The trustees pointed out that they would change their opinion only if they could be convinced the drainage would not add to the flood problems of the area.

School Supt. B. J. Davis said, "I can't understand how we can have any influence on Dobrey Slough based on expert opinions."

Funeral services were held Saturday in Prospect Heights, Ill., for Gerald E. Hartley, 62, a former resident of Madison and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Robert C. Martin, 2423 Benton St. Interment was in Memorial Park Cemetery, Wilmette, Ill.

Other survivors include his wife, Mrs. Louise (Norvill) Hartley; and a daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Geishecker and two grandchildren.

Mr. Hartley was a graduate of Madison High School where he was well known as a basketball player. He was a bulk fuel oil distributor in the Chicago area for many years. He died suddenly on Thursday at his home.

Local relatives who attended the funeral services were Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Martin, their daughter, Mrs. Fred Cunningham, and granddaughter, Mrs. James Harsh.

Special Meet Tonight On Levee's School Ban

The Granite City Board of Education will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. today to consider denial of a building permit for the new high school.

A permit was denied Thursday by the Fast Side Levee and Sanitary District Board of Trustees which said it could not afford to build a school on the levee district's property.

William "Mike" Ebersold, board president, said the school district did not seek a permit until plans were finalized and a contract let for the fill work.

Ebersold said today that if the school district fails to discontinue work on the project until drainage plans are revised, an injunction will be sought in an effort to force the district to comply with the levee district's permit requirements.

The trustees pointed out that they would change their opinion only if they could be convinced the drainage would not add to the flood problems of the area.

School Supt. B. J. Davis said, "I can't understand how we can have any influence on Dobrey Slough based on expert opinions."

Fatal Crash On Route 3

A Chillicothe, Ill., youth was killed and five persons were injured, including Dr. Hector V. Hecox, a local physician, in a three-car accident at Route 3 and W. Ponton Road.

Dead was Howard Adolph Hansen Jr., 18, driver of one of the cars.

Passengers in his auto who were hurt were John P. Harizal Jr., 18, of 2508 Delmar Ave.; Cecelia Weiss, 18, of 1535 Clark Ave.; and Scott Schneider, 18, of 2765 Washington Ave. Also injured was Patricia A. Wickman, 18, of 2300 Nameoki Road. The five were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Police investigators reported that Dr. Zevallos was headed north on Route 3 when the Hansen auto, which had observed a stop sign on Ponton Road, pulled out into the highway. After the two autos collided, the southbound Wickman car was struck, state police said.

An inquest is pending.

The Hansen youth was admitted to the hospital at 12:40 a.m. Saturday and died at 2:45 a.m.

The injured were treated in the emergency room and three, including Dr. Zevallos, were admitted.

The list of witnesses in a Madison County grand jury investigation of activities in a strike of more than 800 reached 17, with four testifying on Thursday, Nov. 18, and 13 others scheduled to appear for one first time tomorrow and Wednesday.

Among those testifying Wednesday will be Sister Cornelia Hawkins, a Catholic nun who has served as village juvenile officer and a police dispatcher. She was one of four who testified Thursday, despite threats on her life.

She told the Press-Record today, "The threats are not going to bother me. I will testify."

She did not discuss the nature of her testimony last week or why she is being summoned a second time.

From other sources, it was learned that the investigation was launched by the staff of State Attorney R. W. Griffith Jr. after a meeting Nov. 9 in the home of Wood River Township Supervisor Rodger J. Elbert.

Those attending the meeting with Elbert are believed to have included Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whistell and several Ponton Beach village residents. The village is situated within Nameoki Township.

A grand jury member also is alleged to have been present. Whistell and Sister Cornelia were questioned Thursday, as was Floyd D. Moser, village health inspector, and Michael Ellsworth, a village resident.

At the meeting earlier this month, allegations were voiced about the way the village is being operated.

Topics included use of funds, handling of arrest tickets, election procedures, the degree of tavern hour enforcement, the question of whether an official has a conflict of interest, and allegations relating to vice, drugs, gambling, employee contributions, actions by officials and police conduct.

Sister Cornelia told the Press-Record that four threats have been received by her since last Tuesday.

On the first occasion, a man approached her in the 1800 block of State Street and asked her if she had been subpoenaed to testify.

She had not received her subpoena at that time and told him she knew of no subpoenas.

The man allegedly called her a liar and said, "If you go up there and open your mouth, you're dead!"

Subsequent threats were made in telephone calls to her residence at St. Elizabeth's Convent of the Sisters of Divine Providence, she related.

She said the first caller commented, "I hope you are not going to open your mouth. It's better to keep quiet."

The second caller said, "If you value your life, keep your mouth shut."

The third remarker, "Hope, you're not going to cop out on the village."

Those called to appear before the grand jury this week reportedly include Village President Thomas L. Stafford and his wife, June; Carl Hackney, village treasurer; and Bud Marlette, a former police dispatcher.

Assistant State's Attorney David Stalker, who is active in the investigation, has declined to release the names of others subpoenaed. He did confirm that there is a link between the calling of the investigation and the airing of charges about village operations.

Many of the allegations center on tavern area activity, it was learned.

Utilities Seek Plant for Coal Gasification

Seven Illinois gas and electric utilities, represented by a non-profit "Coal Gasification Group" spokesman, have testified in Washington in favor of joint government and industry coal gasification.

Illinois Power Company is a member of the Coal Gasification Group formed in July to investigate the use of Illinois coal reserves for conversion into pipeline quality gas. R. A. Blakeney, IP vice-president, is a member of the advisory board of the group.

David T. Strielf, Coal Gasification Group advisory board chairman and senior vice-president of Northern Illinois Gas Company, said in Washington Thursday that because of "sky-rocketing energy requirements" the CGG companies support a bill calling for a joint government and industry corporation to construct and operate a full-scale, commercial-sized coal gasification plant. The bill (Senate Bill 1340) is sponsored by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Washington, and Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah.

Strielf told members of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, the bill "should draw upon but not duplicate" the Interior Department-American Gas Association research program.

A government and industry coal gasification development corporation would be practical, he said, because it might benefit from results of the Interior Department-American Gas Association project, bring together the nation's technology and know-how and offer the necessary financial and organization posture.

Dual Thanksgiving Traditions at St. Peter's in Prospect Again

The artistic Thanksgiving decorations on the altar of St. Peter's Evangelical United Church of Christ may be a few missing pieces once again this year when the traditional Thanksgiving Day services begin at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Each year, Earl Soehlig, a man of the soil, adorns the church altar with fruits and vegetables in true Thanksgiving tradition. And, almost equally as traditional, someone is unable to resist temptation and helps himself from the horn of plenty by removing a bunch of grapes or an apple.

According to the Rev. Robert L. Kettiehut, pastor, no one complains about the missing fruit, but Mr. Soehlig, who finds he has to keep extra pieces of fruit handy to fill the customary gaps left by the appreciative fruit forager.

The altar decorations by Mr. Soehlig have been a Thanksgiving tradition for 19 years. Initially, he used only fruits and vegetables grown at his nursery on Nameoki Drive, but now he buys a few items to add variety and color to the festive display.

He and his two sisters began the nursery in 1930 and only this year they have decided to sell the business and retire, said the minister said.

Mrs. Soehlig is a life-long resident of Granite City. His grandfather arrived here from Germany and was a charter member of a small log church which later became St. John United Church of Christ on Nameoki Road.

Worship services on Thanksgiving Day at St. Peter United Church of Christ, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard, commencing at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, will have William Salenbach, the student associate from Eden Seminary, delivering the message.

The Rev. Kettiehut will serve as liturgist and music will be furnished by the St. Peter Junior and Cherub choir, with Larry Berry at the organ.

After the worship service, a coffee fellowship hour will take place, with the ladies serving homemade fruit bread.

A child care service will be available, the pastor said.

The bids will be opened at 10:30 a.m. Dec. 16 at the facilities engineering office, Building No. 7465, at the installation.

The building, a one-story frame structure, is numbered 7126 and consists of a troop room pool facility. The proposal excludes personal property except fixtures firmly attached.

The successful bidder will complete all removal and restoration work required within 60 calendar days from the date of notice that removal of the property is authorized.

The building is to be removed from the ground level, including debris. A concrete slab floor need not be removed but a concrete pad must be removed to the floor level and utility lines are to be cut off.

Basketball Trojans Facing Big Task of Rebuilding

The outcome of the Madison High School Trojan basketball season which begins Nov. 30 at Triad looks considerably dimmer than it did at the end of the 1970-71 season.

First, tragedy struck when the team's leading player, Clinton Burkhardt, 6-4, died in an automobile accident two weeks before school started.

Scholastic ineligibility took, at least until mid-January, three other starters, Jerry Belford, 5-10, Tony Ragsdale, 5-11, and Charles Lucas, 6-2.

Jerry Dragich, 6-4, one of the most promising Trojans, moved to Litchfield.

The only two returning lettermen are Ed Chandler, 5-10, and Terrance Young, 6-4.

Chandler and Emory Wilson, 5-10, will probably be in the forward slots.

Center Toss Up

Center will be a toss up between Vernell Glasper, 5-10, senior, Kevin Boyd, 6-0, sophomore; Chris Stanley, 6-0, sophomore, and Young.

Madison will not have much height and will be starting three men under six feet.

Senior Roger Glasper, junior Jay Greer, and senior Larry "Smoke" Evans, all only 5-6, probably will be on the backline.

As the Trojans face a rebuilding job, and the team is an underdog.

SIU-SW Wrestling Team to Open Season

Larry Kristoff, coach of the Southern Illinois University-Southwestern varsity wrestling team, has scheduled a list of dual meets and tournaments which could only be termed staggering for the upcoming season.

Kristoff's Cougar wrestlers, who posted a 9-4 record last season and are 11-4-1 overall in the two years of varsity competition, will open Nov. 26 and 27 at the Southern Invitational Tournament at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

Says Kristoff, commenting on the Chattanooga tourney, "This meet will be the toughest in collegiate wrestling this season, even including the NCAA finals at Oswego, N. Y., March 3-4. The seven toughest teams in the nation are entered, including the defending national champion, Oklahoma State, and Iowa State, Oklahoma University, Penn State, Michigan State, the University of Michigan and Lehigh University. Oklahoma State will enter 31, while Oklahoma University has entered 21."

Strong last season in the lighter weights, Kristoff has recruited three standout heavyweights to shore up that weight division: Bob Underwood of Pekin, Bruce Hies of Granite City and Byron Whitfield, freshman from Beaumont High, St. Louis. "Underwood," says Kristoff, "has great potential and Hies, who is just back from service after four years, could be real tough."

Regulars back from last season's winning team are led by two brilliant wrestlers, Jan Gitcho, 126 pounds, and the Cougars' team captain, Phil Janetas, a sure winner at 134 pounds. Kristoff doesn't spell it out, but one gets the impression that Gitcho of Granite City and Janetas of Chicago are the two he's depending on to bring off two national championships.

standout from St. Louis' Vashon High, is also high in Kristoff's plans for a winning season. "He's the type of boy you almost have to kick out of the gym after practice and his attitude is the best. He's a winner at 150 or 158 pounds," he predicts.

Also looking good in pre-season drills is Belleville sophomore Tim Evans at 158 pounds. At the 118-pound weight, Kristoff believes he has found the wrestler to replace Ed O'Brien, who has moved to California and enrolled at UCLA. The new 118-pounder is Amos Branson, junior college transfer from Meramec Community College via St. Louis' Roosevelt High.

In the 167-pound division, it will be a battle between two sophomores, Roxana High's Perry Allison and Tony Pierce of Dayton, Ohio. "Either one will do a fine job for us," Kristoff predicts.

Two freshmen, Ed Wendell from Park Forest, Ill., and Robin Rummel from Peoria, Ill., will be battling for a starter's berth in the 177-pound division. Another freshman, Tom Eaton, a walk-in graduate of Granite City, is a good prospect and could give Evans a run for the 158-pound berth.

In the 118 or 126-pound division, another standout freshman prospect is Larry Pruitt, from Northwest High of St. Louis. At the 126-weight, however, Pruitt would have to beat out Jan Gitcho and that would take some doing, although Larry is a good prospect.

Others on whom Kristoff is counting heavily are veterans Steve Bradley, Mike Freitag, Bob Guerni and Russ Baum.

Basketball Warriors Ready For Opening Game Saturday

The Granite City High School Warriors will open their 1971-72 basketball season 8:15 p.m. Saturday by hosting Springfield Griffin.

The GCHS team appears determined, and their chances look good, for improvement on their 22-9 record of last season. It took the Warriors a while to click last year when at one time they had a 1-3 record.

But they improved enough to win the Pontiac holiday tournament, were a close second in the Salem Invitational and captured the regional and sectional championships.

The only loss off the 1970-71 starting five is Mike DeRuntz, and the other four have returned. They are Joe Wallace 6-6, Terry Ripka 6-5, Chuck Kraus 6-3, and Bob Wiggins 6-1.

Also returning is Kevin Dyer, 6-3, who was not a regular starter, but managed to play in about half the varsity games last season. Another returning letterman is Rick Prehn, 6-4 1/2, a senior.

Backing up the returning lettermen will be Dan Bixler, 5-10, senior; Gary Lively, 5-10, junior; Tom Vrenick, 6-2, junior; Mike Martinez, 5-8, sophomore; Tom Patterson, 6-2, junior; Brett Champion, 6-1, junior; Steve Melzer, 6-0, junior; Mark Gunn, 6-1, junior; and Mark Boone, 6-1, junior.

This is Deterding's fifth season at Granite City High School and his 15th season as a basketball coach.

Deterding has a respectable 67-40 record here, and a 229-147 record for his career.

"DeRuntz has left a big gap to fill this season. Mike gave us good rebounding and good defensive play against any big man. We'll just have to see what develops without him. I believe we have a lot of talent waiting to come forward," Deterding said.

Could Set Record

Ripka could prove to be the all-time top scorer in GCHS history. Gary Simpson, during the 1968-69 season, tallied 699. He netted 1,334 total varsity points. Ripka has a variety total of 801 points, giving him the opportunity to out-distance Simpson.

Coolidge Junior High Basketball Coach Rich Williams holds the school record with 1,694 points while playing guard for GCHS from 1938-60.

Ripka at 6-5, 185 pounds, tags most of his baskets from the outside.

"Dyer and Kraus will be handling the inside work for us," Deterding said. "Chuck Kraus has a great attitude and was one of the hardest working football players we had," Deterding said.

Both Dyer and Kraus played varsity football, and two more football players, Wallace and Bob Wiggins, will be in the backcourt.

Wiggins, who broke his arm in football, is practicing every day, but probably won't see action until some time around Christmas.

One Sophomore

Mike Martinez, 5-8, is the only sophomore on the varsity squad, and according to Deterding, young Martinez will supply quickness for a full court zone press and probably will see a lot of varsity action.

If the Warriors are to make a showing in the Southwestern Conference they cannot afford a slow start this season.

Their third game of the season Dec. 8 at Collinsville, is a conference battle, and on Dec. 17, the Warriors go to Edwardsville.

"One of our major goals this season is to win the Southwestern Conference title," Deterding said. "We were only 6-4 last season thanks to our slow start; but this season the team is ready. Everyone knows with conference games early on our schedule, there is just no time to warm up. We have to start hot and stay hot."

The Warriors have not won the Western Conference since 1940.

Junior varsity games are played prior to every varsity game, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Park District Sports Dinner Set Tonight

The Granite City Park District annual Sports Award banquet will be held at 6:15 p.m. today in the Granite City High School cafeteria.

Highlighting the evening will be the presentation of 153 trophies to participants in park softball, tennis, football, basketball and baseball programs.

The top award presented will be the annual park district appreciation award to a citizen who has rendered outstanding service to the district. Barry Loman, district vice-president, will make the presentation.

Park Commissioner Paul Thompson will present the service awards. Henry Gabriel, district president, will be toastmaster.

Seven athletes will be special guests at the banquet.

They are Joe Hoerner, pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies; Dan Dierdorf, offensive tackle for the St. Louis football Cardinals; Steve Carlton, Joe Hagie and Mike Shannon, all of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals.

Madison Team To Wrestle

Madison High School will have a wrestling program this year despite board of education orders last month that the program be discontinued.

At the board's meeting Thursday, members commented that they had been deluged with calls in opposition to discontinuing the program, and Chester McManaway, board president, suggested the program be reinstated on the basis that the cost not exceed last year's and that all matches be away.

A letter was read from Al Vonder Haar, coach at the high school, stating that Paul Scooby, last year's wrestling coach, would be willing to coach this year at the same rate as last year.

4th Christmas Overseas for Local GI; Writes to Parents

A local serviceman who will spend his third Christmas in Vietnam this year, and his fourth consecutive Yuletide on duty overseas has written the Press-Record asking that a letter he enclosed to his parents be published in the newspaper.

The pre-Christmas "Yule Mail Call" service is open to all area military personnel, whether stationed at home or abroad, whose names and addresses are submitted to the Press-Record, 1815 Delmar Ave., either by letter, postal card or written on a slip of paper and brought to the office.

Specialist Six Gary W. Barron has written a special letter to his parents through the newspaper the past two Christmas seasons.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin F. Penberthy, 2920 Forest Ave., and presently is stationed at the 55th Evacuation Hospital in DaNang, Vietnam. His Yuletide at home was in 1967.

Starts Flag Hunt
 Spec. 6 Barron is the same young man whose request for a flag to fly atop his APC (Armored Personnel Carrier) in May 1969, as other men in his unit were doing, instigated the search for a pennant for Granite City when it was found the community had none to send the servicemen.

His letter to Mayor Donald Partney resulted in the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce sponsoring a flag designing contest, with students from the three local high schools competing. Subsequently, flags were selected for both Madison and Venice, as well as Granite City.

Spec. 6 Barron's letter reads in part:
 "Dear Mom and Dad:
 'Tis almost that time of year again, you know the time when the lights are in the window and the tree is up with all the boxes with ribbons on them under the tree.

"Well it looks like I won't be around again this year when Santa Claus comes. What's it been Mom, four years since the last time I spent Christmas at home.
 "Let's see, I think it was 1967 when I was home for Christmas. I spent Christmas of 1968 in Germany; Christmas 1969 at Cu Chi, Vietnam; Christmas of 1970 here in DaNang; and I'll be here for Christmas of 1971, too.

"I hope that you know that even though I am here in body at Christmastime, in my mind I am really sitting at home with you and the rest of the family.
 "Do you know what I would do if I were home for Christmas this year? I'd take Glenn for a drive while you and Santa set everything up. So that when we got back to the house all we would have to do was open up all those pretty-wrapped presents.

"The next morning I'd take Glenn, Ellen and Lester out to Monks Mound and we'd slide down the snow covered hills. Then I think maybe we'd slide down in my car and go to Grandma's for a couple of days.
 "I'll tell you what I want for Christmas. I want you to take the kids and go down to Grandma's. You can use my car. That way it will save wear and tear on dad's car.

 "Well mom and dad I don't have too much more to say, but there is one last thing I want you to know, I miss you so much that it hurts down deep . . . I really miss you a whole lot.
 "Have a 'Happy Thanksgiving' and a 'Merry Christmas' and remember, I will be there in time for Easter weekend in 1972.

County Seeks Means to Pay Levee Judges

Efforts to find a way to pay judges of two East Side Levee District elections were urged at a meeting of the Madison County Board of Supervisors last week.

The board also approved a $15,000 appropriation for the Quad-Cities Mental Health Clinic to be used by the end of the fiscal year on Nov. 30. The funds were available but authority was required to make the payment.

The problem of payment of the judges was described by Dan Churovich of Granite City Township. He asked that a standing committee of the board conduct a study and attempt to reach a solution.

Churovich, Louis Whitsell, Nameski Township supervisor, and Walter Sparks, Chouteau Township supervisor, said it would be difficult to hire judges for coming elections and to rent polling places if the payments are not made.

Ordered by Governor
The special Levee District elections were ordered by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, and district trustees and Madison County have balked at meeting the bills. Churovich said that St. Clair County had paid for its share of the cost.

Miss Euallia Hotz, county clerk, said she had submitted the problem to the state's attorney's office but a solution had not been reached.

Marshall Smith, the board's legal advisor, said the state had suggested that one or more of the election judges file a class action on court.

He said the suit would result in a default judgement, and that the levee board could use the judgement as a basis for borrowing the necessary funds from a bank.

Miss Hotz, who will conduct a school for judges at Granite City High School Friday night, said "We are doing everything we can to pay the money."

In other action, the board approved a 30-day extension beyond a Dec. 31 deadline for the Board of Review to complete its hearings.

Floyd Tomerlin of Alton was appointed to the County 708 Mental Health Board for a term to expire Dec. 31, 1973. He succeeds Sylvester Bugger of Collinsville.

Reappointed to positions at the County Historical Museum were Ruby Morris, superintendent, and Catherine Moorhead, librarian.

The board approved purchase of Quercus Grove School on Carpenter Road in Hamel Township as a park and community center for residents of five rural townships.

The board authorized application for 25% matching grants to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission for $33,000 for an educational pay incentive to improve and upgrade the county sheriff's department and for $75,000 to improve and upgrade the probation and court services department.

Appropriations of $11,000 for the sheriff's department and $25,000 for the court services department as the county share of the costs were approved.

Also approved was purchase of audio visual equipment for the sheriff's department from the Video Co. of St. Louis at a cost of $4,185.

A call for bids for office furniture and equipment for the new data processing department was authorized.

A resolution approved provides that board committee

Parents Renew Bus Service Demand

The Madison School District should feel a moral obligation to bus students from Dunbar School to Madison Junior High School, a representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Madison branch, told Chester McManaway, president of the Madison Board of Education, during the board's meeting Thursday night.

Mrs. Nabel Dandridge, president of the NAACP branch, said the buses complete morning and afternoon runs 45 minutes before the drivers are dismissed. "For 45 minutes the buses sit in the garage and the drivers sit there with them," Mrs. Dandridge said. "You could send those buses to pick up our children at no cost to the school district," she remarked.

McManaway commented that the farthest home in West Madison from the junior high school is less than one and one-half miles, the required distance under the school code if the state is to reimburse 80% of the transportation cost.

"If we were to bus your children, every parent in the district would want transportation when it snowed, even if the child lived one block away," McManaway stated.

Mrs. Barbara Madison, a member of the Dunbar School Parents' Club, said the district is busing children from the Cloverleaf addition which is within one mile and one-half limit and "I have followed your buses as they made detours to pick up children within that distance."

Will Investigate
McManaway said he will investigate whether the West Madison students may be bused at no additional cost under the terms of the contract with School Transportation Inc., but said he doubted it.

The six representatives of the NAACP and the parents' group discussed the board a list of four requests, including bus transportation. The other requests included the establishment of a music program at Dunbar, better equipping the home economics department at Dunbar and the removal of a new light post between the Dunbar building and cafeteria building which parents said is a hazard to children.

Acting upon the request for a music program, the board hired Louis Cross, 1103 Logan St., Madison, an instrumental music teacher in St. Louis, to teach instruments and organize a band during after school hours at Dunbar. Cross is to assume the part-time duties Monday, Nov. 28.

McManaway said he would investigate the possibility of purchasing new tables, dinette sets, dishes, glasses, cooking utensils, reference books and other materials needed in the Dunbar Home Economics classroom.

He also told the parents the possibility of moving the new light post at the school to a position where it would not interfere with the movement of children between the buildings would be investigated. The light was installed this month and is being rented from Illinois Power Co.

The issue of busing the students arose after a court order Sept. 9 allowed Dunbar seventh and eighth grade students to attend either Dunbar or Madison Junior High School. The court also ordered the school board to provide equal educational opportunities at both schools.

Gives Progress Report
During the meeting, Fred Riddle, superintendent of schools, presented a progress report on compliance with the court orders.

The report showed that the enrollment at Dunbar had dropped from 451 students in September to 340 on Oct. 31 while the junior high school enrollment had increased from 253 in September to 361 at the end of October. It further showed four teachers from Dunbar were moved to the junior high school and additional changes are anticipated this month to equalize the quality of science instruction.

Other changes were cited including the moving of the Educational Mentally Handicapped class from the junior high school to First Presbyterian Church to provide more room in the junior high.

The transfer of the class was the grounds for a grievance sent to the board by the Madison Federation of Teachers, Local 763. The grievance listed several objections to the move, including a lack of security for the teacher, McManaway stated the facilities had been approved by county and state officials. A motion was made that

Wilfred Neutzling, 49, Labor Foreman, Dies

Funeral services were held yesterday in Edwardsville for Wilfred O. "Scotty" Neutzling, 49, of 46 Summit Ave., Glen Carbon, a labor foreman at G. H. Sternberg Construction Co. here for 16 years. Mrs. Neutzling died suddenly at home at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, apparently from a heart attack.

He was a lifelong resident of Glen Carbon and was a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Edwardsville.

He was president of Laborers' Local 474 in Glen Carbon and of the Glen Carbon Volunteer Fire Department. He was a member of the Loyal Order of the Moose and the Legion of the Moose.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Toni (Eilers) Neutzling; one son, Richard A. Neutzling of Glen Carbon; his mother, Mrs. Jeanne Miller Neutzling, and a grandson.

Interment was in Glen Carbon City Cemetery.

meetings, all of which are to be open to the public, be scheduled in advance and posted at the court house by Dec. 14 of each year for the following year.

Amendment Beaten
An amendment to the county budget proposed by Roger Elble, Wood River Township supervisor, to reduce an appropriation for per diem and mileage of county board members from $160,000 to $149,500, and to utilize the extra $10,500 to employ a full time county administrator to assist the board and its chairman, found little support and was defeated.

Elble also presented a statement criticizing the state's attorney's office for insufficient efforts in prosecution of criminal cases and the sheriff's department for permitting tavern violations and illegal activities by deputies.

A resolution called for appointment of a personnel committee to study the differences in pay scales of county employees, provide salary equalization for similar jobs in various departments and to make a job evaluation study.

Price Submits Bill to Aid Relief Clients

Congressman Melvin Price, D-East St. Louis, has announced the introduction of legislation at Washington providing for the relief of the many former welfare recipients who have been dropped from the rolls because of a lack of state funds.

"The Social Security Amendments of 1971, as they passed the House of Representatives on June 22, 1971, contained titles which would bring substantial relief to the present welfare system," Cong. Price said, "and would restructure the financial scheme to the effect of providing considerable fiscal relief to the states by reducing their outlays for welfare costs. These provisions were to go into effect on July 1, 1972, and many states had begun incorporating the new provisions into their fiscal 1973 planning. They had every reason to expect that the Congress would act expeditiously on these reforms."

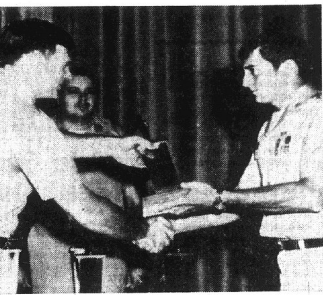

"Unfortunately for those concerned," Price continued, "the President has requested for the purposes of his economic plan the postponement of the most needed welfare reforms until fiscal 1974 at the earliest, and the Senate has demonstrated little enthusiasm for enacting the provisions of the Social Security Amendments. The effect of this development of state finances is severe and unexpected."

The 24th Illinois District Democrat said that "immediate stop-gap measures are needed to provide fiscal relief to the states for their welfare costs." The Price bill would provide for the fiscal relief to the states by limiting state expenditures for fiscal year 1972 and 1973 to the level of expenditures for the state incurred in fiscal year 1971.

"The federal government would pick up the excess," said Price, who went on to state, "I am urging speedy adoption of this measure, for it would afford immediate tax relief to state and local taxpayers on a national basis of $900 million for fiscal year 1972 and $1.1 billion for fiscal year 1973, for a total of $2 billion."

"The effect of such a proposal on the taxpayers of Illinois is dramatic," said Price. "An estimated $60 million would not have to be spent by the State of Illinois in this fiscal year, thus greatly improving the State's present budget system. The expected savings for the next fiscal year would be about $74 million."

Cong. Price concluded by saying that "this bill would not affect the welfare reform bill that is awaiting Senate action. Rather it would provide emergency interim relief to the states, welfare recipients, and taxpayers, who deserve updated and fairer methods of assistance now for the administration of their revenues."

OUTSTANDING TRAINEE. Private First Class Charles T. Hull, right, was honored recently as the outstanding trainee of his advanced infantry training company at Fort Jackson, S. C. The award was presented by Captain Douglas M. Hendrick, left. Hull is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hull, Rural Route Two, Granite City.

Rumsfeld a New Star on State Political Horizon

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield — There's a new bright star on the Illinois political horizon.

He's Donald Rumsfeld, 39, of Evanston, a former Congressman and now director of the Cost Of Living Council. Sometime later Rumsfeld is expected to run for either governor or U. S. senator.

There are those at the Statehouse who do not rule him entirely out of the 1972 picture. There is a growing feeling beneath the Capitol Dome that Rumsfeld may have replaced John Henry Horner of Peoria as the number one standby candidate in case Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, for some reason or another, should decide against seeking a second term.

Rumsfeld, while still serving as a special consultant to President Richard M. Nixon, made a swing through Illinois late in the summer. His tour was interpreted at the time as a fact-finding mission for the mission for the President with the specific assignment being to assess Ogilvie's re-election possibilities.

It is generally accepted in Springfield political circles that Rumsfeld reported back to the White House that the outlook for Ogilvie was far from encouraging any move to replace him would probably cause such an internal uproar in the party that chances of electing any Republican for statewide office in 1972 would be seriously endangered.

Seek Party Unity
Since then the party leaders ship has been working diligently and with some notable success to fashion party unity. Whether the situation will remain that way in light of the extremely poor showing by Ogilvie in several recent polls is a subject for increasing Statehouse conjecture.

The prevailing belief remains that Ogilvie will still head the ticket next year with U. S. Sen. Charles H. Percy and Atty. Gen. William J. Scott counted on to be strong keys along with the President himself.

Meanwhile, increasing attention is being paid to Rumsfeld and political watchers have noted the recent surge of publicity which has marked his advance to the critical role as director of the Cost Of Living Council. Few men in the country hold so important a position as the Nixon administration moves to set the national economy aright.

Assisting Rumsfeld to so important a post reflects his high regard with which he must hold Rumsfeld because in the view of most students of politics, Nixon must succeed in his economy endeavor or lose the 1972 election.

Illinois a "Must State"
The fact that Rumsfeld holds such a key role in this effort might on its own rule him out of any Illinois candidacy. However, it has been frequently stressed that Nixon considers Illinois a "must" state to be carried and if he thought Rumsfeld could make the difference he might well transfer him to the political front.

Coincidentally Rumsfeld's prominence in the economic struggle is reaping him wide public exposure. He is frequently pictured on the pages, occasionally with the President, all of which would be of help in case the need should develop for a sudden statewide buildup.

Perhaps, most important of all, Rumsfeld is recognized as having political charisma which means as young as anything, and he is young, good-looking and comes over well on television. He is rated as having as much political class as Chuck Percy and could probably play in the same league with Ted Kennedy.

Presidential Hopefuls Aiming at 18-Year-Olds; 5 to 2 Democratic?

(Second of two stories on the impact of the youth vote.)
By EDWARD NEILAN
Copy News Service

Washington—Seven declared and undeclared aspiring candidates for the presidency in 1972 have opened offices in the nation's capital.

The operations have been staffed mainly with a veteran though youngish cadre of workers from previous elections and, until the fall school semester opened, a bevy of young student volunteers who were busy at each office stuffing envelopes, wrapping posters and collating campaign material.

On the walls of most of the offices are organization charts showing the various branches either opened or soon to be opened.

On several of the charts, university campuses are prominently marked.

It is evident at this early stage of the 1972 drive for the White House that the potential youth vote—made possible by the lowering of the voting age to 18—is very much on the minds of campaign workers.

It is also very much on the minds of the back-room strategists, the men who call the campaign shots from smoke-filled rooms, who are never seen stuffing envelopes.

But if the youth vote is a prime consideration in campaign strategy, it is also apparent that so far neither Democrats nor Republicans have any firm ideas on how to corral young voters to get them to vote for their respective candidates.

Apart from pushing new voter registration, there is little in the campaign generals are revealing at this time about their plans to the Democratic National Committee, Charles Perry has the fulltime job of getting more young people to register nationally.

"We're working on a strictly nonpartisan basis so far," said Perry.

"And we're going ahead despite grumblings from some field sources who say young people feel 1971 too early to start thinking about 1972."

"Well, we expect that attitude to change by the end of this year and catch on in 1972," Perry, who works closely with Philip Seib, coordinator of the Democratic campaign effort, said.

"We anticipate about a 2.5 to 1 edge for Democrats in the colleges. The exact ratio will depend on whether the student lives in a fraternity house or dormitory."

Perry said campaign themes will be developed later and will include a "strong pitch" for the youth vote. "But we've got to get them registered first."

Lyn Nofziger, assistant to the Republican national chairman, said his troops were trying to identify the first voters; get to them and ask them to register as Republicans.

"We tell them what President Nixon has done for them in terms of the draft, for example—where he wiped out seven years of liability and uncertainty and substituted one year of eligibility—and we feel that if we get the message across to them, they'll love the President and vote for him in 1972."

Nofziger said getting to 18-year-olds still in high school was difficult because political campaigns are banned on high school campuses.

"This is unlike the colleges, where our College Republicans can move in and actively recruit," said Nofziger, a former press aide to California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"We have to approach it differently in high schools. Our Teen Age Republicans are doing it on a community rather than an individual school basis."

The mood at most of the offices of aspiring presidential candidates reflects the enthusiasm and optimism of youth.

In general, but with some exceptions, there is a tendency to play down the antiwar theme and even economic issues.

The young campaign workers, at least, feel the issues of ecology, health, civil rights including Women's Lib, will appeal most to young voters.

At the Birch Bayh, Edmund Muskie and George McGovern headquarters, there is a certain uniformity of language.

The theme, "1968 was the last time that a president will be packaged and sold," keeps recurring.

In several of the headquarters, "posters proclaim something of the attitudes of the workers, at least, feel the issues of ecology, health, civil rights including Women's Lib, will appeal most to young voters."

At McGovern's headquarters, there is still a "Vietnam: Love it or leave it" poster despite the senator's announcement that he has decided the economy, not the war, is the prime issue.

At the Muskie's office, a prominent poster says, "Not to decide is to decide."

McGovern's headquarters is the most active and the one most thoroughly staffed with young people.

Under a crayon-inscribed original poem posted that reads, "My candidate's eyes are not handsome; just wise, farsighted and rare," Duke senior Carol Friedenberg said stuffing envelopes.

She spent the summer, until fall classes beckoned her back to political science studies, as a campaign worker in charge of mailings.

"It gives us a sense of commitment and community that there are so many young people working here," she said.

She noted proudly that "even the director of the entire campaign is only 35."

Hardly any of the young volunteers in the McGovern store-front headquarters at Pennsylvania Avenue stress party lines.

They are there because, like 26-year-old staffer Art Bushkin, they believe that "working for Paul is the best way to stop the war. It moves the vote on the war up to the primaries."

Like the Democrats, the McGovern workers are also helping to register new voters, especially the 18-to-21-year-olds.

At 1690 L St. NW, in a high-rise office building, the working and college graduates working in the Youth Coalition for Muskie office are talking about issues.

"We must include the young professionals and youthful workers," says one. "After all, non-students, outnumber students among the young and these people must be reached."

Ellen Landsberg, a young college graduate working at the Bayh headquarters, sounded a note that might be heard with increasing frequency as the actual election draws near.

"Going for the 'youth vote' may be an artificial thing, a put mechanism for the old 'sales job,'" she said.

"After all, we're not just kids interested only in drugs and the war. We're interested in the whole range of issues."

"Young people ought to be recruited by political parties as adults—not as kids."

A Few Accomplishments, Many Failures by Illinois Legislators in Their Fall Session

Disappointment was voiced by both of the likely 1972 gubernatorial rivals, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie (R) and Lieut. Gov. Paul Simon (D), after the General Assembly adjourned at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 13, ending a spectacularly unproductive session. Keen disappointment also is being felt by many Illinois citizens.

Accomplishments during the October-November deliberations were not non-existent. They included implementation of the governor's amendatory votes of certain January-June bills. Legislation regulating highway billboards was enacted.

And the Assembly passed an "implied consent" bill; this state has been the only one of the 50 without such a law. The measure makes breath tests mandatory by saying that motorists consent to them in accepting their driving licenses. It could go a long way toward curbing drunken driving.

Hundreds of bills failed to reach final action in either the spring or fall session. The list is as sad as it is long.

Republicans blocked legislation to reconstitute the state electoral board, even though the new Illinois State Constitution calls for it—and even though the lack of such a board creates serious problems in conducting the March 21 primary election, for which filing is to begin Dec. 13. The next regular legislative session will not begin until Jan. 12.

The present electoral board of elected state officials and state chairmen of the two major parties must be superseded by a new state board of elections. Its composition was left up to the Assembly but the governor opposed the legislators' solution because it called for him to appoint a four-member bipartisan board from eight nominees submitted by the four top legislative leaders; he feels the Assembly should have no voice in the appointments.

Gov. Ogilvie suggested a board of elected state officials, the two party chairmen and other members recommended by the party chairmen. Senate Majority Leader Cecil Barthe (D, Chicago) warned that the courts may postpone the primary because of the lack of an election board.

The GOP also blocked a measure setting up procedures for filling legislative vacancies. As a result, constituents of the late Senator William Lyons (D, Gillespie) will continue to have no representation. His death broke the

This Week in America's History

1771—Massachusetts Bay Colony was well established in 1771, and Boston was perhaps the most important city and port in the colonies, even though rivaled by Philadelphia, New York and Charleston.

Massachusetts in 1620 had been the site of the second permanent settlement in the area of the 13 colonies, with Jamestown in Virginia as the first in 1607.

The more northerly coast had been explored at least as early as 1602, and mapped in 1614 by Capt. John Smith, who had been instrumental in the Jamestown settlement.

The name "Massachusetts" was derived from Algonquin Indian words meaning "near the great hill," an apparent reference to the Blue Hills near Quincy, where the Algonquin Indian confederacy centered.

1821—Charles Taylor, a well-known Transylvania College library in Lexington, Ky., went to Europe with $100,000 to purchase books.

While there, he learned of phrenology, a kind of "science" by which the human cranium was charted, with each section taken to be the center within the brain governing special capabilities, or moral or mental qualities.

Returning, Caldwell lectured on the subject in Kentucky and throughout the midwest and helped make phrenology a topic of popular national interest. With much feeling of "bumps" on the head, with a presumption that they indicated special talents or characteristics.

1871—Russian fleet of war vessels arrives in New York with the Grand Duke Alexis, son of Alexander II, czar of Russia, who was a great public reception

29-29 tie, leaving the Republicans with a majority of one but still one vote short of the 50 required to pass a bill in a regular session.

Democrats blocked funds for the newly-created Illinois Judicial Inquiry Board. The state has been without machinery to investigate complaints against judges since July 1, when the judicial portion of the new constitution went into effect.

The constitution took the power to initiate and investigate complaints away from the Illinois Courts Commission and created the new inquiry board. The first two members were appointed by the Illinois Supreme Court but the seven others needed to complete the board were not chosen by the governor until late September. Two attempts to get a $100,000 appropriation for board operations failed in the Assembly.

The constitution gives the board subpoena power and the authority to appoint and direct a staff, but without money it probably will be unable to proceed. In the meantime, there is no way to process complaints that specific judges are physically, mentally or morally unfit to sit on the bench.

The state legislators ended their session without giving persons property tax relief to individuals; without requiring racing associations to disclose the names of their secret stockholders; and without protecting scenic rivers and Lake Michigan from commercial exploitation.

Friends of Mayor Daley of Chicago filibustered to make sure that the Assembly did not take away the city's new "home rule" power to set its own standards for medical doctors, architects, realtors, engineers and members of other professions.

A bill for the Illinois Public Aid Department to take over administration of Cook County welfare operations reached the near-passage stage but was not approved.

In this geographic area, the chief disappointments were failure to divide the East Side Levee and Sanitary District and failure to establish a convention and performing arts center at SIU-SW. Fortunately, both proposals remain alive and are given a chance of passage in 1972.

Perhaps the most significant statewide failure was the lack of an ethics-in-government law despite the introduction of many proposals dating back as far as last February. Ethics bills by both parties were amended so extensively during the spring and fall that the 1971 session ended with the legislators still far from agreement.

The issue has not yet been killed but clearly is being "studied to death."

An ethics bill was passed by the Senate and forwarded to the House a few hours before the end of the spring session. House leaders kept it in committee and formed a special commission to review the problem during the summer. The commission developed a comprehensive proposal which was introduced at the start of the fall session, but it was rendered almost meaningless by changes.

Two other ethics plans were proposed and discussed endlessly. On the final day, a conference committee considered all the proposals and again concluded that more study was appropriate. A House-Senate committee now will continue the effort to draw up a document that is both acceptable and workable.

The most controversial portion is still income disclosure. It is in this aspect which can reveal illicit wealth for lawmakers and other officials. Apparently a new ethics code will remain only a dream unless Illinois voters apply additional pressure to their legislators to act affirmatively.

Encounter Groups Bring Cohesion But Readjustment Can Be Difficult

(Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, Ill.)

In almost any large newspaper or magazine a reader can spot an advertisement luring him to participate in an encounter group.

But the advertisements, according to a California psychiatrist, never warn the reader about the possible dangers of such a group.

"Encounter groups are people who get together to experience feelings together," explained Dr. Donald Shaskan, chief of the Mental Hygiene clinic of the VA Hospital in San Francisco and president of the American Group Psychotherapy Association.

"Everybody wants to handle a classic emotion, feelings are the thing. And these encounter groups, which deal with these fast-happening emotions, are springing up."

The encounter group movement is one of the fastest-growing movements in the United States.

As Dr. Shaskan sees them, there is a behind-the-scenes group that is anything can be exposed; "that includes not only your body but your aggressions."

"Encounter groups are encouraged to express what they have on their minds—in the here and now—and in any way they feel is right."

They express their feelings through touching, wrestling, stroking, patting. There is a good deal of what the group leaders call personal encounter.

Dr. Shaskan attributed the proliferation of encounter groups to the decline of the authority of the church and other social institutions as well as the decline of agencies which once handled emotional problems.

"People are more willing and more ready to participate in some type of group experience."

People want the immediate effects of these groups—they're not interested in the long-term effects. This too, seems to be a sign of our times.

According to Dr. Shaskan, some of the problems stemming from this re-entry into life have to do with the individual's readjustment back into the society he left to join the group.

"We have run into suicides and depressions because of this re-entry into life. The group leaders just don't prepare the participants for the group after-effects."

He added that there is one very positive aspect to group encounter.

"The cohesion that results from these encounter groups is amazing. It usually takes time for a group to form a feeling of unity."

"But encounter groups make this cohesion come rapidly."

"That's probably because of the emphasis that's placed on feelings instead of one's past experiences. Feelings are something we all have in common, and perhaps this accounts for the cohesion."

Dr. Shaskan said that the person who acts as the leader of encounter groups is the one most responsible for the cohesion of the group on its participants.

"Right now, most leaders are not really professionally trained. I think psychiatrists should lead more encounter groups because they are quite qualified to handle the possible problems of the group."

"If the psychiatrist doesn't lead the group, he should train professionals to do so. It would be safer for the group."

Research May Achieve a Better Rain Balance Throughout World

(American Institute of Physics)

Man's dream of controlling weather through management of rainfall is closer to realization as the result of on-going research at the Lehigh University.

Directed by Dr. Albert C. Zettlemoyer, internationally-known meteorologist and vice-president of the Lehigh project is supported by the National Science Foundation (NSF) through its Weather Modification Program.

Specifically, the Lehigh team of physical chemists is engaged in developing cloud-seeding materials which are more independent of precious metals than any now in use and thus less expensive, and which can be used when no rain is falling.

The most controversial portion is still income disclosure. It is in this aspect which can reveal illicit wealth for lawmakers and other officials. Apparently a new ethics code will remain only a dream unless Illinois voters apply additional pressure to their legislators to act affirmatively.

Teacher Surplus Makes Placement Difficult

Despite national surveys that show supplies far exceeding demand, many area students are continuing study to become elementary and secondary teachers, according to Leslie Wehling, director of student services in the education division of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

Wehling says he isn't discouraging students interested in teaching from studying for the profession, "but selectivity by school boards is becoming more acute because of the lack of open positions and the large number of applicants."

The Student Services Office in the education division at SIU advises student teachers and provides placement in school districts in the St. Louis Metropolitan area. Students seeking bachelor of science in education degrees at the campus are required to complete one quarter of student teaching experience, working under the supervision of a full-time teacher in an area system.

Screening committees are being established to evaluate student records and their interest in becoming a teacher, Wehling said. This will aid the student in deciding whether or not teaching is a desirable career. The committee also can provide alternative suggestions based on the student's background.

Jerry Gibson, coordinator of the student teacher program at SIU-SW, says that 265 student teachers have been placed in schools in the area for full quarter. This figure includes 113 student teachers in elementary schools and 152 in secondary institutions.

Vietnam Veterans Show Top Interest in Education

G.I. education benefits are more popular among Vietnam veterans than they were among veterans of the Korean conflict. John B. Naser, director of the Chicago VA regional office said on his return from a three day conference with top VA officials in Washington, D. C.

Enrollment under the G.I. Bill is up 39% over last year, conference with top VA officials are exploring new ways to expand it even more.

Naser met with Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson and his Chief Benefits Director Olney Owen in meetings that brought together the directors of VA's 32 regional offices, 165 hospitals and six independent outpatient clinics.

More than 2.7 million veterans and servicemen already have used the current G.I. Bill in its just over five years of existence, the Chicago Director said he was told, and this exceeds the 2.4 million trainees under the 13 years the Korean G.I. Bill was in effect.

Budgets Increased
With Veterans' Administration budgets increased to a record $10.9 billion for fiscal year 1972, the agency is deeply involved in programs of paramount national interest — such as decreasing unemployment among veterans and providing health care and other benefits for the nation's 28.5 million veterans.

"Because unemployment is greatest among veterans with the least education, VA is actively encouraging veterans to take advantage of their education benefits in some form," the regional office director said.

These benefits support college level study — with tutorial assistance when necessary. A veteran can draw benefits to complete high school and still have full entitlement to go on to college, or he can learn a trade in a technical school or through training on the job or on the farm.

Programs Expanded
On the job training programs, the director said, are being expanded in cooperation between VA and small businesses, and a program in progress only two months has already resulted in 8,600 new programs and 12,000 new job slots.

Studies presented at the conference, Naser said, bring out that education is the key factor in unemployment among veterans. The unemployment rate is highest among the veterans with the least education. For this reason, he said, VA has stepped up its effort to interest the disadvantaged in taking some form of training. Steps include predischARGE counseling at military bases in the U. S. and overseas, and at least four follow-up contacts with each veteran who has not finished high school.

RECYCLING OF CANS was demonstrated last week at Granite City Steel Company's basic oxygen furnace as officials of the steel and canning industries studied the process. Discussing procedure during demonstration are, from left, J. A. Leschen, vice-president of sales for the steel company; Paul Von Gontard, group manager of Anheuser-Busch Inc.; Chuck Koenig, assistant to the director of purchasing for Granite City Steel Co.; Glenn Otten, director of purchasing for Pet, Inc.; Nicholas P. Veeder, chief executive officer of Granite City Steel Co., and Robert Murphy, an executive of D'Arcy-MacManus-Intermarco.

Longer Vacations for City Workers Approved

Employees of Granite City will receive fringe benefit increases stalled by the wage-price freeze, Leon Scroggins, city attorney, has informed the city officials.

Scroggins advised the city that the Cost of Living Council has approved provisions of the working agreement between the city and its employees approved before the freeze was imposed.

The increased benefits include three weeks annual vacation time rather than the present two weeks.

The council also was informed that a $62,678 contract with MacLair Asphalt Co. for resurfacing six arterial streets has been approved by the Illinois Department of Public Works.

Mayor Donald Partey reported that interviews presently are underway to hire several persons under a new federal grant. He said unemployed persons will be hired to assist in the cleaning of streets and alleys and in other city jobs.

Success of Environmental Work Depends on Public

William Blaser, director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, says "staying power of those in the steel and canning industries studied the process. Discussing procedure during demonstration are, from left, J. A. Leschen, vice-president of sales for the steel company; Paul Von Gontard, group manager of Anheuser-Busch Inc.; Chuck Koenig, assistant to the director of purchasing for Granite City Steel Co.; Glenn Otten, director of purchasing for Pet, Inc.; Nicholas P. Veeder, chief executive officer of Granite City Steel Co., and Robert Murphy, an executive of D'Arcy-MacManus-Intermarco.

period after Blaser's address, several members of the audience expressed concern about the problem of landfills in low terrain which leads to water pollution.

Blaser said the EPA was working with the problem. He pointed out that Illinois accumulates more than 11 million tons of waste each year. "Everyone wants waste removed, away from them," Blaser said.

Recommendations are being made to landfill operators regarding future sites, but for the time being violations of open burning and dumping in rivers and streams are monitored, Blaser said.

Cite Education as Key to Drug Problem

Lack of information is the least of the problems in drug abuse, Joseph Hupert, director of the drug use and abuse project at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern, said last week at a meeting of the SIU-SW Women's Club.

"Information changes," he explained. "What you teach a pupil in the first grade may not be true by the time he reaches the fifth grade. 'What is significant,' Hupert said, 'is the behavioral change from the use of drugs.'"

According to the director, the most important way to solve the problem is to teach children how to make decisions and to consider the consequences of their actions. "Kids today have to make more complex decisions at an earlier age than their parents did and they need the tools. These tools should be presented in a formal way and kindergarten is not too early to begin," Hupert stated.

Richard Sanders, assistant superintendent for instruction, School District 7, Edwardsville, expressed with Hupert said, "Students don't want statistics. They want to know what usin' drugs will do to their bodies. They want a teacher who is outgoing, thinks young, is honest and has a background in drugs but doesn't believe he has all the answers."

Sanders said he was including alcohol and tobacco as drugs. There are three categories, he pointed out, those who will not abuse drugs, those who experiment and those who are abusers. Both Hupert and Sanders said experimenting with drugs is widespread. Hupert estimated that one-third of the state's high school students have experimented.

Commenting on the drug scene at Edwardsville High School, Sanders said the problem has declined in the past year, "although a problem still exists."

U.S. Switch To Metric System Urged

By CARL PLAIN
Copley News Service

In the world of weights and measures, the United States is lonely. Canada, Australia and South Africa are the only other major industrial nations still using English standards.

About 90 per cent of the world's people conduct three-quarters of its trade using the European-originated metric system — a fact increasingly worrisome to U. S. planners as the figures go up yearly.

Change is in the wind, Maurice Stans, secretary of commerce, has urged a U. S. switch to the metric system over the next 10 years.

Conservative estimates of the cost of the changeover range up to $16 billion.

"The titanic expense and effort which the switch would demand may be a small price to pay for this nation's survival in the area of world competition," says B. F. (Sandy) Cogan, who is expert in trade and industrial matters.

"Most military authorities," he says, "are bullish about the effects that commonality in design and operation of sophisticated armaments would have in mutual assistance alliances, where the United States supplies a large proportion of the weapons its treaty partners use."

Need Better Reasons
But to justify the switch, there must be better reasons than a weapons commonality, Cogan concedes. One reason being advanced is that U. S. export volume could be increased perhaps $600 million yearly by making U. S. goods more compatible with foreign specifications.

Like all measurement units and standards, the metric system is arbitrary. Yet it is widely considered to be inherently more logical and more easily learned.

"Our so-called English weights and measures which the English call Imperial have long and very vague antecedents," says Cogan, a former aerospace executive who is president of the Economic Development Corp. of San Diego County. "Often history becomes intertwined with folklore as exemplified by the belief that the yard originally represented the distance from shoulder to fingertip of King Henry I — 36 inches."

Began in France
Metric measurement started in France in 1790 when the revolutionary National Assembly proposed a system based upon permanent natural standards. Metric is a term derived from "metre," a unit of length about 39 inches, originally intended to represent a 10-millionth part of the distance from the equator to the north pole at the longitude of Paris. Units of area, volume and weight are related to the meter. For instance, the unit of mass, the gram, is the weight of a cubic centimeter of water at greatest density.

Every multiple or submultiple of a unit is related to it by a power of 10.

"No such relationship is possible in a system where a foot and a mile have so little in common," says Cogan.

"Ironically, the metric remains this country's only officially recognized measurement system, having been formally approved by Congress — but never actually adopted in practice — in 1866. To this day, there exists no official foot or pound in the National Standards Bureau. The units are known there only as fractions of the referential metric standards."

In 1875, most of the world's technically advanced countries recognized the metric system with the signing of the Treaty of the Meter in Paris.

Japan and Britain, great trading nations, have migrated to the meter in recent years. Japan completed an orderly changeover in 1966, a year after Britain started a conversion program expected to be completed in 1980.

If the U. S. Congress as final arbiter decrees the metric conversion, it will not happen overnight, Cogan says. He is convinced it is unrealistic to believe the United States can continue indefinitely to use the inch when the rest of the world is using the meter.

He foresees a painful, costly and slow changeover although the transition would be relatively swift for the scientific community.

Campaign to Stress Need Of Occupational Education

More than 80 metropolitan area civic organizations, municipal chambers of commerce, Rotary Clubs and local industrial development associations are being asked to join a drive to sell Missouri and Illinois teenagers on thinking hard and long about occupational education. Six Rotary Clubs already have agreed to do so.

D. Reid Ross, executive vice-president of the St. Louis Regional Industrial Development Corporation (RIDC), said these civic groups are being asked to support more than 100 major corporations and labor organizations on both sides of the Mississippi that already are engaged in a massive, area-wide campaign to get across the idea that a college degree, "isn't the only way to achieve good earnings or to enjoy a rewarding career."

Representatives of the groups, Ross said, have volunteered to set up a series of speakers' bureaus, visiting high schools and PTA meetings to show a movie called, "The Choice is Yours." This film, produced by RIDC, stresses the growing number and variety of careers requiring vocational technical training as opposed to a college or university degree. "Technology is exploding so fast," Ross said, "that 65 of the products that will be made by the end of the 1970's haven't been invented yet. Two-thirds of today's kindergarten children will grow up to take jobs in areas of technology that don't even exist today. Industry will

Springfield Services For Mrs. Amy Forth

Funeral services were held last week in Springfield, Ill., for Mrs. Amy Forth, 82, a former long-time resident of Granite City, who died at the Dirksen Nursing Home in Springfield.

Mrs. Forth was the widow of Roscoe Forth, a prominent lawyer here for many years.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Stenken of Kansas City, Mo.; a son, Carl Forth of Springfield; and a granddaughter.

Attending the funeral from here were Mrs. Willard Simpson, 2621 Edison Ave., and Mrs. Fred Fossick, 2707 Harvey Place.

Interment was at Oak Ridge Cemetery, Springfield.

Plan Christmas Party
The regular monthly meeting of St. Louis Chapter 48 of the WAC Veterans Association will be combined with the Christmas Party. Both will be held at Carpenter's Building, 1401 Hampton Ave., St. Louis, in the Plank Room, on Thursday, Dec. 2, at 8 p.m. There will be a gift exchange and carol singing. Members may bring a guest.

Bus, Auto Collide
An auto driven by Patricia A. Dutko, 1101 Niedringhaus Ave., and a Bi-State bus driven by Harry M. Julius, West Alton, Mo., collided Thursday at 18th Street and Madison Avenue.
